Senator Keaveny Announces 4th Senate District Tax Credit Award

JEFFERSON CITY —Missouri Sen. Joe Keaveny is pleased to announce the approval of state tax credits for a 4th Senate District business under the Enhanced Enterprise Zone (EEZ) program.

The Booksource of St. Louis, which spent $1,380,000 for a new facility at 5111 Southwest Avenue in St. Louis, has been approved for $46,773 in EEZ tax credits over a five-year period. The additional business operations will include warehouse/distribution divisions and is expected to create five new jobs.

“We must invest in the companies that are finding success in these difficult economic times, so I’m glad we were able to secure these funds to a great company like The Booksource of St. Louis,” said Sen. Keaveny. “Not only do they have a new facility, but they are providing jobs in our community. Hopefully these tax credits can continue to help them grow.”

The Enhanced Enterprise Zone program was implemented in 2004 by the Department of Economic Development and targets demographic zones in an effort to create jobs.
